Crews with odd bow markers will row in lane 5. Any crew crossing the course during their time trial race will be excluded. All crews must have their assigned number securely fastened to the bow of the shell.

The Start of the Time Trials

Upon arriving at the starting area, the marshals will direct crews or scullers either into the chute for the time trial or to the warmup area.

It is the responsibility of the crew to be in numerical order, staying behind crews with lower numbers and ahead of the higher numbers.

Every effort will be made by the marshals to send crews down the chute in ascending numerical order, but this can only happen with cooperation from all crews.

When directed into the chutes crews and scullers must proceed quickly and safely.

As crews and scullers approach the chute, a marshal will be stationed in the middle of the course, between lanes 4 and 5.

Odd number boats will keep the marshal to their port side and even number boats will keep the marshal to their starboard side.

Crews and scullers shall be responsible for maintaining their proper order at the start, for maintaining the proper interval between the other crews and scullers in the chutes, and for staying within the chutes as they approach the starting line.

Crews and scullers not maintaining their proper position may be delayed, moved to the end of the starting order, penalized, or excluded.

The starter will tell the crew or sculler when they are approaching the start line.

Crews and scullers must stay in their lane for the entire race, except for broken equipment or to yield and move to an outside lane when being overtaking by a faster boat.

Crews and scullers with broken equipment must move to lanes 3 or 6.

Passing

A crew or sculler is deemed to be overtaking another crew when it has moved to within 1 length of open water of the crew or sculler ahead.

A crew or sculler being overtaken shall move to lane 3 or lane 6 to allow the overtaking crew or sculler to pass.

Any crew or sculler failing to yield to an overtaking crew or sculler will be excluded.

Course marshals will give instructions as set forth in the RCA Rules of Racing. Should it be necessary to exclude a crew or sculler during a race, the marshal will raise a white flag and order the crew or sculler to stop. A crew or sculler so ordered shall quickly move out of its lane as not to interfere with any other crew or sculler.

Interference – Interference causing a crew or sculler to lose time in a race will be reviewed by the Chief Umpire and the Jury.

Un-Safe Sport Conduct – Un-safe sport conduct, which includes, but is not limited to foul, abusive or profane language, violence, harassment, racism, or discrimination, will not be permitted at the rowing course or the Grandstand before, during or after any racing, by competitors, coaches, team officials, regatta officials and volunteers, and that such conduct must be reported to the CSSRA Regatta Safe Sport Representative.

Medal Presentations - Medals will be presented at the Grandstand immediately following each race final. The Regatta Organizing Committee may revise the form and location for medal presentation as it may deem necessary in its sole discretion.

DELAY CONTINGENCY PLAN:

The CSSRA Regatta Organizing Committee has the right to reschedule races earlier or later in the day or the next day for safety reasons or in the event of bad weather. Any change in the schedule will be announced on Henley Island and posted on the CSSRA media outlets and the CSSRA web site. It is the responsibility of the High Schools and the Rowing Clubs, their coaches, their representatives and their competitors to monitor the CSSRA media outlets and stay current with the schedule.

Any changes required by a delay are deemed to supersede the published related requirements of the RCA Rules of Racing.

During any amended or condensed schedule, crews that are not competitive in the race and have dropped well behind the field may be excluded from the race and directed to remove themselves from the rowing course. No allowance will be made for competitor conflicts due to the reducing of time between races and substitutions of crew members will not be allowed.

Schedule Change Options:

The Regatta Chair and the Chief Umpire will determine any schedule changes by utilizing the following formatting:

Friday Delay:

1. Friday races may be run at the end of the day with reduced time between races to complete the schedule until 45 minutes prior to sunset.
2. Friday races may be run starting early Saturday morning with reduced time between races. This may impact the Saturday schedule which will be changed to allow the Friday races until 45 minutes prior to sunset.

Sunday Delay

1. Races may be run with reduced time between races to allow for completion of the amended schedule.
2. All medals and trophies may be presented at Henley Island to ensure maximum use of shells.
3. If any final race is unable to be completed the final placement of crews and medals will be determined by the times from the semi-final races. If the semi-final races were unable to be completed the final placement of crews and medals will be determined by the times from the heats or the time trials.
4. Racing will not take place after 45 minutes prior to sunset on the last scheduled day of the Regatta.

The Chief Umpire will communicate schedule changes with the Jury. The Regatta Chair will communicate schedule changes with the Regatta Committee and the CSSRA Directors and will ensure announcements are made and communicated to all areas of the CSSRA Regatta site, including but not limited to the general CSSRA Regatta Office, Henley Island public announcement, Grandstand announcements, finish tower, CSSRA web site and other social media sites.
